

Riley's Market Day in Korea

A Story, Coloring & Play Book

Ages 4+

MARKET DAY IN KOREA

Sharing This Book

For children ages 4+ and a grown-up.

Read Riley and Mom's story and explore together.

Riley shops with Mom. Activities can be shared with any grown-up.

Let your child join in

Pointing, gestures and words in any language are welcome.

There is no need to read, write or repeat the English.

Take breaks, revisit pages and let your child pick the colors.

Notice, count and pretend

Point to each item as you count. Check the picture list.

Notice cucumber bumps, carrot tips and fish fins.

Take turns as a seller and customer with pretend food.

Our shopping list

Two cucumbers, one carrot, one pack of tofu and one fish.

Rice is already at home. We do not cook or eat in this book.

Help with the choices

Pages 6 and 8: the vegetable shop and the right-hand path.

Page 14: the carrot has a pointed tip. Page 18: the right tray.

Page 34: check the foods. Page 36: hide one and take turns.

Greetings, colors, drawings and memories have no fixed answer.

A window into everyday life

This is one imagined visit to a contemporary Korean market.

Shops, foods and ways of paying vary from place to place.

Pictures show shape and actions, not weight or freshness.

Two Cucumbers, Please!

"Two cucumbers, please!" says Riley.

The seller shows her a tray.

"Are those our two cucumbers?" asks Riley.

Mom smiles. "Let's check the list."

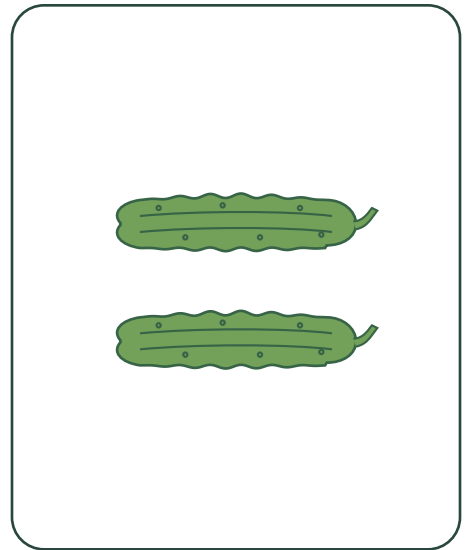

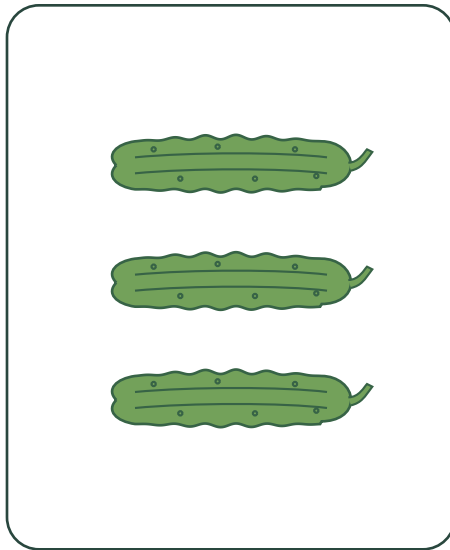

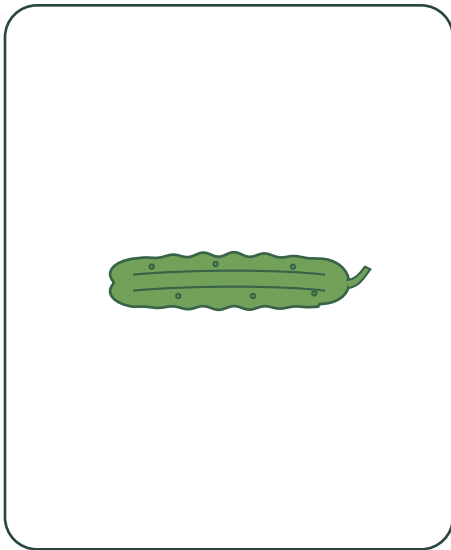

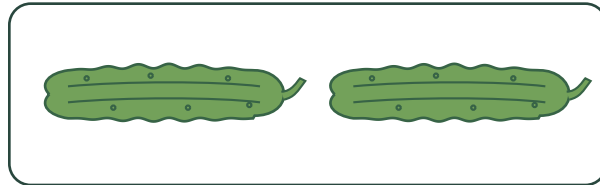

Can you help Riley choose the right tray?

Which Tray Will Riley Take?

We need two cucumbers.

Point to a tray, or circle it.

We found the two we need!

Now turn the page to see our choice.

Our Two Cucumbers

Two cucumbers for our list.
Color this part of Riley's story.

Choose the colors you like.

A Small Shopping Trip. So Much to Notice.

Join Riley and Mom on a market day in Korea.
Look closely, choose what is on the list,
color the pictures and pretend to run a market stall.
Share their little finds, smiles and discoveries.

The market story ends here.
Preparing and sharing a meal can be our next adventure.
